

County Lines and resources to help you understand the dangers

The Clewer Initiative provides a range of training for adults linked to County lines. Here are some of the videos they share:

County Lines – PC1942 - This is a film describing the reality of county lines including some of the language used by those involved. It is aimed at young people to raise awareness of the dangers of county lines, emphasising the level of deception used along with the consequences of being drawn in.

Gemma’s story - This is the story of how a young woman gets drawn into County Lines and how a policewoman befriends her and helps to extricate her from the situation.

“Trapped” - This is video case study on the damaging effect of County Lines, describing how a teenager is drawn into county lines and in so doing draws in his girlfriend and mother as well.

Danielle’s story - This story is adapted from a BBC radio 4 programme entitled 'Girls under the radar' and describes a young girl's experience of being drawn into County Lines and how she eventually finds a way out.

Adverse Childhood Experiences - This video is an introduction to ACEs (Adverse Childhood Experiences) and explains why some young people are particularly vulnerable to the threat of County Lines.

Dave’s story - This video tells the story of a man with mental health issues who was cuckooed by a county lines gang with tragic consequences. It shows the importance of protecting those with learning difficulties and or with mental health challenges.
